

FOREWARNING OF CAMPAIGN SEEN IN LABOR FIGHT

Dispute Over Landon's View Warns Of Rough Campaign

Washington, Aug. 1.—(P)—With political speechmaking gradually reaching the whole field of New Deal policy, the dispute over Gov. Alf M. Landon's labor position is widely regarded as a preview of the rough and tumble campaigning expected in the fall.

In a week which saw Col. Knox accept the Republican vice-presidential nomination and witnessed a move to coalesce anti-Roosevelt Democrats, the assertion by Landon that unions have the right to promote "the organization of an unorganized industry" aroused special contention.

Both President Roosevelt and his rival left the running debate for the present to subordinates. Having ended his vacation with a visit to Quebec, the president devoted part of his return trip today to conferences on New England flood prevention. He and James A. Farley, who took leave as postmaster general yesterday to devote all his time to managing the reelection drive, are expected now to proceed with more definite speaking plans.

In Topeka, Governor Landon gave attention to problems of nature and politics. Between questions on aid to drought-blighted sections of Kansas, he discussed the business situation with some visitors and the campaign with Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), former Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and others.

A Roosevelt backer four years ago, Pinchot said Landon is "a practical progressive" and pledged his support. It was announced here subsequently that Secretary Harold L. Ickes, who worked for the Bull Moose ticket in 1912 as did Pinchot, would discuss the Landon record "as a practical progressive" in a broadcast next Monday night.

The scheduling of a conference of anti-New Deal Democrats at Detroit on August 7 raised a question whether Smith would attend. Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri said the purpose was "to talk things over," arousing speculation whether an organization to oppose reelection of the president might be formed.

John Hamilton, the Republican chairman, has indicated a hope that Smith would take the platform along with other Democrats of his views. If this should materialize, an unusual situation would be presented. His conqueror in the 1928 campaign—Herbert Hoover—is expected by Republican leaders to make at least two eastern addresses against the New Deal.

Regarding the attitude of the 1932 presidential nominee, James M. Cox of Ohio, Farley said today in New York that his "wholehearted support" of the president had been assured.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, sided with other pro-administration leaders today to say in a statement that the Landon labor stand "would make every strike illegal and every picket a lawbreaker."

Father Coughlin Ridicules Reports Of Church Action

Says Roman Collar Is Not "In the Moth Balls"

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 1.—(P)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, ridiculing reports his church might silence him, pointed to his "Roman collar" today and declared it was not "in the moth balls."

Though not referring specifically to the visit this week of Bishop Gallagher of Detroit with Pope Pius XI in Rome, Father Coughlin declared: "By all prognostications and prophecies printed in the papers in the last two weeks my Roman collar by this time was supposed to be in the custody of moth balls."

At another point in his address to an outdoor rally which police estimated nearly 10,000 attended, he asserted that "newspaper headlines were having me silenced while I was laughing at them."

At the same time, he said that if President Roosevelt "had not spent money in alleviating the poverty and misery of the people there would have been bloodshed in the streets, as in France, and as in Spain today."

He also said that if Herbert Hoover had been reelected president and if Governor Alf Landon should "take up where Hoover left off, there would be nothing left for America but bloody revolution."

To the gathering, sponsored by the national union for social justice, Father Coughlin asserted: "No member of the national union will vote for either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Landon."

Farm Products Hit New Highs During Week Just Closed

Drought Continues To Ravish Sections of Midwest

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(P)—A week of rapidly rising basic food-stuffs prices, which set a general six year high and caused many a housewife to restudy budget figures, closed today with new peaks for corn and other major farm products.

Corn, the principal cash crop of the drought ridden middle west, brought its gains for the week to 17 cents a bushel, with a 4 cent spurt—the daily limit allowable—it closed above the dollar line for September delivery at $1.03.

Other cereals rose also as forecasters saw little chance for any immediate change from the sunny weather which has daily increased the crop damage of the north central and adjacent areas.

While farmers still having prospects of crops counted hopefully on increased returns, new estimates of heavy reductions in yields were made. H. C. Ramsower, director of Ohio State university agricultural extension division, calculated that state's corn crop had been sliced fifty per cent by the drought and still was being "ruined rapidly, especially in the southwest corner."

From the consumers, B. W. Snow, Chicago authority, predicted a "breathing spell" before the retail effects of currently higher wholesale prices became noticeable in the grocery bill.

The retail price changes resulting from the drought, said Snow, probably would not be felt for several months.

But a report of the Bureau of Labor statistics in Washington credited a drop in potato prices of 13.5 per cent as the only item which prevented a rise in the general index of food prices in the last two weeks of July.

The index declined 0.3 per cent because of the action of spuds, the report said.

The monthly report of the Department of Agriculture indicated the smallest world wheat supply since 1927 and said world prices were expected to average higher than in 1935 because of the reduction.

LOUIS BLERIOT, PIONEER FRENCH AVIATOR, DIES

First Man To Fly Eng. Channel Victim Of Heart Attack

Paris, Aug. 2.—(P)—Louis Bleriot, 64, the famous French aviator who first flew the English channel, died today.

The outstanding aviator of his day, Bleriot crossed the channel from Calais, France, to Dover, England, in an airplane on July 25, 1909.

He outdistanced a destroyer which had been assigned to direct his course, completing the hop of 23.5 miles in 38 minutes.

Bleriot, who became an engineer after his air career, succumbed suddenly to a heart attack during the night. He had been confined to bed recently because of heart weakness.

The pioneer aviator's wife, his three married daughters and two sons were at his bedside.

The family announced funeral arrangements would be made later in the day.

Bleriot retained a great interest in aviation, although he had not flown since 1929.

Industry Forges Ahead, Ignoring Seasonal Slump

Retail Trade Expands; Index of Activity Reaches 6-Year High

Ignoring the tradition of mid-summer dullness industry drove ahead with abnormal speed last week as retail trade expanded even in parts of the country afflicted by drought.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity advanced from 94.2 to 95.3, the highest level in six years. A year ago it stood at 74.6.

The Department of Commerce in its weekly business survey of 37 cities said, "with retail trade throughout the country moving at higher levels than during the corresponding period last year, wholesale activity stepped out with definite indications of a substantial upturn in fall trade."

"Reports from the various industrial centers gave evidence of sustained activities in most lines. Transportation facilities continued to be taxed heavily to take care of the vast tourist trade which was apparently moving at higher levels than at any time in recent years."

In the van of steady progress of the durable goods division was the steel industry which showed output up to the highest of the year.

Two Boats Still Unaccounted for After Hurricane

Lack of Communications Lessens Fear for Lost Ships

Valparaiso, Fla., Aug. 1.—(P)—Coast guard cutters and planes searched without results today for two fishing boats missing after yesterday's tropical hurricane.

The vessels sought are the 38-foot Seagull under Capt. Hans Hanson, with a crew of four and the 38-foot Ketchum under Captain T. Halversen with a crew of three.

The possibility that they sought shelter and have not reported because of lack of radio facilities lessened fears for their safety.

Several other small craft, on the missing list soon after the storm passed, have been located with all aboard safe.

Later today the Marabell Fishing Company, owners of the schooner Jessie, said the craft was anchored and safe off Sarasota. The owners said they believed this vessel was the Jessica for which the coast guard had ordered a search.

Barcelona In Lawless Hands Say Refugees

Pillaging Reported In East Coast City

Marselle, France, Aug. 1.—(P)—French refugees reaching here tonight from Barcelona had shown that pillaging and lawlessness had broken out in that city and that the full force of the civil guard had been mobilized to combat what they called "anarchy."

Bands bearing arms, without government permits, were roaming through the important east coast city, killing and creating havoc, they said.

One of the bands, refugees asserted, burst into a meeting of the employers' organization, carried off several delegates, and shot them to death in front of a cemetery wall.

Rising dissension between rival labor organizations was reported, with the possibility of an open conflict between Leftists unless the new Catalan government of Juan Casanovas, organized yesterday, restored order.

Samper directed the Spanish government from April 28, 1934, to Oct. 4, 1934.

The government claimed new success against rebels in the south, asserting it had cut the insurgents' communication between Granada and Cadiz by capturing the town of Loja. Freshened by reinforcements, pledged anew to their goals, the armies of Gen. Francisco Franco, the rebel leader, and the Leftist adherents of the Madrid regime stalked each other north of the capital city and at Zaragoza, northeastern insurrectionists stronghold.

Every man capable of bearing a gun was mobilized at Zaragoza to fling his strength against loyalist troops marching on the city from east and west.

Madrid itself enlisted every ounce of energy it could muster to withstand expected assaults from the northern rebel army.

After 15 days of conflict, which may have cost thousands of lives, both sides were desperate, bidding for a turn of fortune which would overthrow the Leftist government or crush the Fascist drive for military and political control of the nation.

"Government troops at Bilbao, refugees arriving from Saint Jean de Luz, France, said, were prepared to destroy part of the city with dynamite in the event of a rebel victory."

The struggle for control was as bitter by sea as it was by land. Loyalist airplanes swept the decks of the rebel cruiser Almitania Cervera of Gijon with gunfire while rebel barracks in the same town gave blow for blow with loyal columns besieging them.

Jacksonville Bus Suit Transferred To Federal Court

Removal Is Requested By Standard Oil Company, The Defendant

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1.—The suit of the Jacksonville Bus Line company against the Standard Oil company of Indiana and Howard Covey in which the plaintiff asks a $25,000 judgment, was removed from the circuit court in Morgan county yesterday to the federal court here. The removal was requested by the defendant, the Standard Oil company, and was ordered by Judge Walter W. Wright, of Jacksonville.

The bus line claims that one of its buses was destroyed by fire at about 7 p. m. on Oct. 24, 1935, in Murrayville, Tenn., to avoid hitting a car which ran out on state route 67 without observing the stop sign, the bus crashed into a tank truck on the Standard Oil premises. With the breaking of the gasoline faucets, escaping gas contacted with a bonfire nearby, causing the bus to catch fire, it is charged. The bus line claims that the faucets weren't protected by adequate bumpers and that the bonfire shouldn't have been on the gas station premises.

France Appeals for Non-Intervention In Spanish Revolt

Hints She May Aid Leftists If Other Powers Support Rebel Forces

Paris, Aug. 1.—(P)—France tonight launched an appeal to world powers not to intervene in Spain's civil war, coupled with a warning to any nations backing the rebels.

The government, officially announced its investigation had shown that "foreign powers" were supplying the Spanish rebels with war materials, which fact "forced" France to reserve her liberty of judgment in supplying arms to the Leftist government.

The statement followed an investigation of the landing of Italian planes en route to Spanish Morocco in French North Africa.

In an indirect way aid was given to Madrid by an authorization for Frenchmen to fight against Spanish Fascists.

French citizens can fight in the civil war if they carry "regular passports." But diplomatic sources said passport stipulations effectively limited volunteers to those who met with the approval of representatives of Spain's Leftist government.

Telegramms were sent to Rome and London officials asserted, urging Italy and Britain to stay out of the Spanish civil war. Similar messages will be sent to other powers if Britain and Italy agree to the plan, it was said.

France, however, reserved the right to send arms to either faction. Officials indicated France could not consider herself bound by a "unilateral declaration of neutrality" if the others did not join in the scheme for staying clear of the Spanish strife.

GIRL CONFESSES KILLING MOTHER WITH A HATCHET

Blame Late Supper For Quarrel Preceding Slaying

Bayonne, N. J., Aug. 1.—(P)—Gladys MacKnight, 17, called the "most cold blooded girl" he had ever seen by Chief of Police Cornelius O'Neill, calmly confessed today she hacked her mother to death with a hatchet while her young sweetheart cried "hit her again."

A late supper which delayed their tennis game was blamed by the pair, Chief O'Neill said for the quarrel between mother and daughter which preceded the slaying in the kitchen of the MacKnight home last night. O'Neill said the girl's apparently ungovernable temper had been the cause of repeated verbal clashes between the two.

After signing statements describing the crime in detail, Chief O'Neill said, the girl changed from tennis clothes to a pink summery dress for the arraignment at which she and her companion, Donald Wightman, 18, radio religious hour singer, were ordered held for the grand jury on first degree murder charges.

Unconcerned manner contrasted sharply with the extreme nervousness of young Wightman as they stood before Recorder Raymond J. Cuddy. His hands were twitching as he clung to a railing but the girl was smiling affectionately at him during the brief session.

O'Neill said Wightman was the first to "break" after the pair were arrested in Jersey City following a ride to Somerville, during which they stopped once to buy beer and sandwiches and once to hug and kiss each other. The girl confessed only after being shown Wightman's signed statement, O'Neill said.

"Gladys, I have told the police the truth, and I want you to do that also," O'Neill quoted Wightman as saying.

"So what?" was her reply, the chief said.

Later, O'Neill said, she told of the killing, and events before and after it.

Quadrennial Show

Saturday, athletes from all of the major nations and many of the minor nations opened the quadrennial exhibition of the fact that peoples from all nations can meet and compete against each other without causing a war. The opening ceremonies of the 11th Olympiad were successfully opened with a parade of athletes past the dictator of the German nation without causing any international incident.

Nations, like people, are different. Some nations are willing to let their subjects "when in Rome, do as the Romans do." Other nations believe in having their subjects do in Berlin what they would do if the subjects were back on native soil. Who is there to say which is correct?

The plans for the Parade of Nations, the colorful show opening the Olympics, in which all of the athletes from all of the nations parade past the reviewing stand and then take the Olympic oath, called for each nation to dip its flag as it passed Herr Hitler, dictator of Germany. Averay Brundage, head of the American delegation balked, and the United States delegation walked by without dipping its colors.

Nor did the Americans give the Nazi salute. They placed their straw hats over their heads and honored the dictator with an "eyes right" as they passed the stand. Herr Hitler returned their salute with the Nazi salute. There have been no international complications as yet.

The British likewise did not salute the dictator with his own salute, but did honor him with an "eyes right." The Italians gave their own Fascist salute, and last reports fail to indicate that there will be war between the two nations. France extended an olive branch to its aged enemy by allowing its athletes to give the Nazi salute.

However, there is beginning to creep into the affairs of the International Olympic committee a suspicion of fear. The committee fears that the games are becoming too large, and are assuming a place in world affairs which may lead to diplomatic difficulties.

Why should they?

The Farm Column

This last week the Journal has added a new feature for its readers. A column headed "Farm and Rural Interest" has started a regular appearance on the Market page. This column will contain not only the agricultural information that is sent out by crop and livestock experts, but personal news about the farmers of this community and the work that they are doing on their farms.

For the especial interest of the women the column will contain articles on cooking, housekeeping, and other phases of domestic science. It will describe the activities of the 4-H clubs and will present items of interest to the younger members of the farm family.

The editors of the farm column do not pretend to be experts in agriculture. The only capacity in which they serve is to collect and summarize the information which comes to this newspaper office daily. They will interview farmers in this area and pass these farmers' opinions on to others.

It is hoped that this column will become a place where farmers will feel free to discuss their problems. The editors will greatly appreciate any contributions and suggestions.

A Useful Map

The local administration has recently made available 200 copies of a detailed map of the city of Jacksonville. It was executed and drafted through the efficient work of Engineer Kenneth Stapleton and his assistant Vernon Weaver. Every detail of possible use to school children, historians, business or professional men is included.

Officials will no doubt make it possible for every school room in the city educational system to have this map in its library.

Clear and concise lettering includes a fund of information concerning roads, locations of state and civic buildings. The city boundary is clearly defined.

The engineering department have reason to be proud of this modern improvement in the city records.

A Record in Safety

It is hard to believe that there was only one passenger fatality on American railroads during 1935 but that was the statement made at Railroad Week banquets and it must be correct.

rect. The West escaped entirely in the passenger casualty totals.

Set against that is the record of about 36,000 lives taken in automobile accidents last year, a record that is so alarming that a dozen or more agencies have gone to work to see how the accident record may be reduced to decent proportions.

One might say that the railroads had been operating for a century and the motor car industry was only about thirty-five years old but there are reasons why the railroad should have more accidents. One is that the speed of passenger trains has been greatly increased. Speed, as we know, is a factor in motor car safety. Why not on trains?

The answer is that the railroads have been constantly at work perfecting safety devices and improving crew personnel. Years ago the casualty totals for the railroads must have run into the thousands every year. Single wrecks have been known to take forty or fifty lives. To go through an entire year with only one passenger fatality on all the railroads of the country is an amazingly good showing.

It remains for the automobile drivers of the country to adopt safety measures of their own.

Soap Box Derby

Friday afternoon nine variously constructed, home made, "autos" coasted down a short stretch in a race to determine the winner of the Boy Scout soap box derby.

Neither the design of the cars nor the competition was especially remarkable, although both of these features were commendable.

The outstanding consideration of the whole project is that the race itself, all the plans and actual arrangements for the event was done by the Scouts. Troop 7 was the sponsor. Their scoutmaster Harold Hopper gave them valuable assistance and counsel, as did several business men, but the idea and the activity was their own.

The character of these boys was pretty thoroughly revealed during the race Friday. They handled the preliminary heats in an orderly fashion, not confused by the excitement. The Scouts who were defeated exhibited the best qualities of sportsmanship, in large measure a tribute to their leader, and ran off the entire program without accident or disagreeable incident.

Jacksonville's Scouts are fast earning a characteristic title that sets them up as a valuable asset to a community. That trait is one that adults need to cultivate—dependability. It is another reason why Scouting in this city must be encouraged and given impetus to grow.

Tribute to McGuffey

Ministers in many churches are paying tribute to William Holmes McGuffey, red-haired Presbyterian schoolmaster, whose textbooks contributed in a large measure to the education of pioneer America.

These services are a deserving tribute throughout the nation to this man whose name has gone down in history as one of the prominent educators of early days in America. They also marked the start of a celebration of the centennial of publication of McGuffey's Eclectic Reader, the use of which may be recalled by many of Pike county's older generation. The climax of the celebration will be observed at Oxford, Ohio, the little college town where McGuffey taught, where a suitable memorial by Lorado Taft will be unveiled.

Despite the fact that more than 122,000,000 copies of McGuffey's books were printed following their compilation at Miami university in 1836, the dog-eared little volumes now are collectors' gems, and a first edition is a treasure beyond price.

No collection anywhere contains every edition complete. Dr. Minnich lists the Primer of 1837 as the rarest of all, not even owned by Ford, who now possesses 468 volumes of various McGuffey works.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

New Deal's Friends Go Over Strong in Primaries... For Routed in Alabama, Two Texas Supporters to Be Returned to House... Power Interests Rebuffed.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington—Democrats planning to meet in Detroit Aug. 7 to express their detestation of the New Deal will not include holders of public office or those who recently enjoyed the suffrage of the voters.

Whether there is any significance in that—or any reason for belief that Al Smith, Governor Ely of Massachusetts, and ex-Senator Jim Reed of Missouri have lost their old popular followings—it is a thought which arises in connection with the fact that the New Deal has been conspicuously successful this year in most Democratic primary elections where its prestige, its favorites, or its enemies were involved.

Numerous pro-New Deal and anti-New Deal members of Congress have been renominated more or less automatically. In 20 state primaries involving 213 House seats, only 16 members have been defeated for renomination. And only one lone senator, Tom Gore of Oklahoma.

Luck Still With F.D.R.

The point is, however—if it is a point—that in fights where candidates have been outstandingly identified with the administration and its legislation, and special attacks were made upon them, and in contests where the Democratic incumbents similarly have fought the New Deal to where they were cordially hated in administration ranks, Roosevelt has had the breaks.

Gore, of course, played the role of gadfly in Washington, loud in his contempt for newfangled legislation and constantly censorious of its administration. He will be succeeded by someone definitely more friendly—Congressman Josh Lee.

Another Enemy Down

Defeat of Congressman George Hud-dleston in Alabama was even more satisfying to the New Deal crowd. It's at least a good gesture that the administration went as far as it could, without exposing itself, to contribute to the result.

Huddleston came within a hair's breadth last year of wrecking Roosevelt's pet Wheeler-Rayburn public utility holding company act. He served on a conference committee as a key member, and his die-hard opposition brought on as spectacular a test of strength between a president and a powerful special interest group, in this case the "power trust" as has ever been seen.

The hatred built up between Huddleston and the New Deal can hardly be overstated. If power companies didn't back Huddleston in the primaries, they're the most ungrateful wretches on earth, which they seldom are.

And Friends Come Back

In Texas Congressman Rayburn was renominated (equivalent to re-election there), and Congressman Maury Maverick received such a large plurality as to assure his renomination in a runoff.

Rayburn is Roosevelt's candidate (it's supposed to be a secret, of course) for Democratic floor leader.

Food Shortage Hits Jersey Co. Game

Drouth Wipes Usual Food: Other News Notes From County

Jerseyville—Shortage of food for squirrels and other game next winter is predicted by Henry Vinson, who resides in Otter Creek township in the vicinity of Hussey Lake.

"There are no acorns this season in our locality," said Vinson. "And squirrels will have pretty much of a food shortage, for there will also be little or no corn on account of the drouth. The squirrels like corn as a substitute for nuts and other natural foods."

"I have five hickory nut trees that stand near my place and until this season, I have never known them to fail in producing a crop or nearly one. There are no dogwood berries this year, for the dogwood failed to bloom this season, the first time that I ever recall its failing to do so. About one tree in ten of the walnuts shows any production in our neighborhood."

"Some of the springs are beginning to get pretty low. In fact I believe that some of them are producing less water than in 1934 and game is concentrating in the localities where there is the best water supply. Some springs have gone completely dry in other localities."

"We have some quail this season in spite of the bad winter which took a mighty heavy toll of the parent stock. I saw a couple of coveys of young ones a couple of weeks ago that were not large enough yet to fly to any advantage."

"Pheasants will not remain in the locality where I live, for the cover does not seem to be the type the species requires. The old type wood pheasant, native to this section, disappeared and to succeed Bill Bankhead as speaker of the House in case the latter's health doesn't hold out. Rayburn jammied the holding company bill through the House, and rushed through the stock market, security and other New Deal measures.

Lower companies tried to lick him, even getting house-to-house canvassers, ostensibly selling household articles, to make speeches against him at all calls.

Maverick is the South's outstanding liberal in Congress. He also incurred the wrath of utilities and oil interests, and a large slush fund was thrown in against him. He campaigned as a pal of the administration. Roosevelt, although always publicly proclaiming that he can take no part in primary contests, secretly did everything he reasonably could to insure Maverick's renomination.

Sure of Further Support

Still another successful New Deal congressman who pulled through in the face of a hard fight was Congressman David Lewis of Maryland.

It would be easy to over-estimate the significance of these primary results insofar as it may apply to the presidential race. Except in the case of Lewis, these victories occurred in states where Roosevelt's plurality in November is a foregone conclusion.

What they do indicate is that if Roosevelt is re-elected, he may have much the same nucleus of loyal supporters in Congress which he has had before. That suggestion must be qualified, however, by the fact that Senator Costigan of Colorado had to retire because of physical collapse, and that Senator George Norris of Nebraska may or may not be re-elected as an independent.

New Dunlap Hotel Cocktail Lounge

Opened Saturday

Coffee Shop Will Be Opened Monday Morning; Prepare For Banquets

Jacksonville's first cocktail lounge, done in Italian red and pigskin, was informally opened to the public at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A formal opening will be held later in the month.

Manager Charles Brown had announced that the cocktail lounge would be opened at 7 o'clock, but early in the afternoon many friends gathered and about 4 o'clock such a large crowd was on hand that Mr. Brown decided to open the lounge at 4:30.

The many beautiful baskets of flowers sent to the new hotel owners by Jacksonville business men were placed about the lounge.

Charles Brown, manager of the hotel, also announced that the new coffee shop will be opened to the public Monday at 6 a. m. Workmen today were making the last of the installations modernizing a portion of what used to be the dining room.

Henry "Buddy" Grotte, head bar man of the Epley Hotels System, of Omaha, was in charge of the bar last night, assisted by John Casey of this city. Grotte, who has served several governors and others in public life during his connection with Epley System in Excelsior Springs, and Louisville, Kentucky, as well as Omaha declared the walnut back bar was the best to be found in this section of the state.

The walls of the cocktail lounge have been finished in Italian red, a color obtained by mixing various shades of red, and the ceiling has been done in a pigskin color, to match the leather used on the stools in front of the bar, and on the lounges. Italian red center pieces also will be placed on the cocktail tables.

An air conditioning unit, capable of changing the air in the cocktail lounge and coffee shop every six minutes, will be in operation. The conditioning unit will provide cool air during the summer time and warm air during the winter time. The air is completely washed before being circulated in the rooms.

Jean Roux, of Bordeaux, France, who will serve as steward-chef of the coffee shop, stated that the shop would offer breakfasts, lunches and dinners at popular prices. The coffee shop has been decorated in a deep yellow, and the service will include matching linens. There is seating capacity for about 150 people in the coffee shop, and about 75 in the cocktail lounge.

The hotel management also has made arrangements to accommodate gatherings up to 200 for banquets and parties. The banquet room has been done in a neutral color, and also will have air conditioning.

Mr. Roux, before coming to Jacksonville, served as head chef in the Gatebrook Hotel, Glen Echo and Meadowbrook Country Clubs, in St. Louis, and at the Blackstone Hotel, Omaha, and for the Marquette Hotel Company, also was sous-chef at the Park Plaza and Coronado hotels in St. Louis.

54 Foreign Nations Are Represented at I. S. D., Annual Report Indicates

Fifty-four foreign countries were represented at the Illinois School for the Deaf last year by 744 pupils, according to the annual report of the school issued yesterday morning by Daniel T. Cloud, the managing officer. All of the counties of the state of Illinois with the exception of eight had children at the local institution. Cook county heading the list with 241 students. Twenty-three children from Morgan county received training at the I.S.D. last year, the report stated.

In addition to the 295 young persons who listed their nationality as American, there were 14 Czechoslovakians, 19 English, 76 German, 36 Irish, 40 Italian, 12 Jewish, 7 Yugoslavian, 27 negroes, 41 Polish, 13 Swedish, and 9 Lithuanian students. Many other nations were represented by a lesser number of pupils. Among the 295 girls and 449 boys in the school, there were twenty-two different religious affiliations.

Many Causes of Deafness

Dr. Cloud's report indicated that many of the cases of deafness have been caused by after effects from common diseases. Whooping cough was responsible for 18 cases, scarlet fever 19, measles 26, flu 34, suppurating ears 13, meningitis 71, pneumonia 10, infantile paralysis 11, abscess of ear 10, falls 20, mastoiditis 7, and automobile accidents 5. Congenital deafness accounted for 252 cases.

Fifty-three children at the local institution have no hearing at all; 73 have up to nine percent of their residual hearing; 155 have from 10 to 19 percent hearing; 106 have 20 to 29 percent; 76 have from 30 to 39 percent; and 56 children have from 40 to 49 percent hearing. There are only 28 boys and girls who have 50 percent or more of their hearing.

In a checkup of the relatives of the boys and girls at I.S.D., it was found that 544 of them had no other deaf people in their families while 200 had some deaf kin.

Besides the 252 cases of congenital deafness, the report showed that most cases of deafness occurred at the age of two years. A total of 102 children lost their hearing at this age while at the age of one year only 68 were afflicted. Under one year the number of cases was 110. At three years 41 children became deaf, at four it was 23, and at five the number dropped to 13.

Health Department Busy

The health department at the school was kept busy throughout the year, the report showing that an average of 68 treatments were given to ailing children daily by the nurse. A total of 16,667 treatments were given in the course of the last school year. The nurse took care of between thirty and forty boys and girls each day.

Close Old State Road For Oiling

Old Route To Capital Offers Much In Way Of Scenic Beauty

The old state road east of the city is getting a new surface of oil, applied by the county highway department. The road will be closed to traffic for two or three days while the petroleum soaks into the roadbed according to an announcement made here yesterday morning by W. J. Casler, the Morgan county highway superintendent.

The old state road which leads out East State street was formerly the way to go from Jacksonville to Springfield. but in recent years practically all of the traffic to the state capital has been via the hard road to Alexander, New Berlin, Bates and Curran. Consequently there are few people who realize the scenic beauty of the old road.

For a leisurely trip to or from Springfield the state road can't be beat. It dodges the small towns, apparently preferring the more peaceful countryside settlements of Island Grove and Old Berlin.

The distance to the capital on the old highway is not much different from the paved route. If anything, the hard road is about a mile or so longer.

There is but one thing for motorists to remember if they decide to take the new oiled road; there are few, if any, filling stations on the route, and it is a good idea to get a full tank of gas before leaving town.

It won't be long before the oil which is now being applied will be dry, and then the road which was formerly the main avenue of traffic eastward will take on new life.

Assess Morgan County Property at Value of $28,479,860 for Year

For the second straight year, the total of property which will return taxes to the various governmental units shows an increase, according to a report made Friday by the assessor and treasurer, W. H. Self. This year's increase amounts to $156,634 over that of last year, and covers property excepting public utilities, with an assessed value of $28,479,860. The assessed valuation of personal property in the county last year was $28,323,226.

Machinery, including automobiles and trucks, and bonds, stocks and mortgages owned by people in the county accounted for the gains. Losses were marked up in the livestock, except swine, fixtures and furniture, net credits and banks, the latter largely through the necessity of taking over considerable real estate.

Personal property in the county is valued at $2,506,590; the total value of lots is set up as $9,376,850; and lands are to be assessed on a valuation of $16,296,450. In addition to the above figures, the county will receive in the future a statement of the amount of personal property owned by public utility companies in this county, an amount which last year was over $3,000,000, bringing the total assessed valuation of property in the county to over $31,000,000.

There are two less automobiles in the county this year than there were last year, according to the assessor's records, which showed a decline of 57 from the year before, but the assessed valuation of the 4140 automobiles is much higher. The automobiles have an assessed valuation of $348,610 compared to the $311,863 of the year before.

The truck population of the county has shown an increase in both numbers and assessed valuation during the past year. Last year there were 615 trucks, and this year there are 620. The assessed valuation of these machines, however, has advanced only from $49,450 to $50,300.

Declines in the livestock divisions resulted during the past year. There were 17,662 cattle in the county in 1935, and this year there are 16,123, a total of 1,539 less than last year. Horses and mules also showed a sharp decline, dropping from 8,105 in 1935 to 6,914 this year.

Sheep declined from a total of 8,979 in 1935 to 6,543 this year. Only in the swine division of the assessor's report is an increase shown.

Swine, after the total number had been cut almost in two between 1934 and 1935, staged a sharp comeback in the county during the past year, and at present there are 30,930 head in the county, compared to the 21,002 of last year.

The horse and mule population of the city remained constant during the last year, with 29 listed as living in the city limits. There also are 61 head of cattle in the city. There are only six head of sheep and seven head of hogs in the city, the record says.

Total assessed valuations, given by townships, show Jacksonville's tax basis as $1,176,880; Waverly's at $74,400. The other townships are identified only by number as follows: Township

Eleventh Olympiad Opened At Berlin With Colorful Ceremony

Cubs Hang 1-0 Defeat on Bees in Eleven Innings; Stretch Lead to 2 Games

Boston, Aug. 1.—(P)—The Cubs tipped the Bees 1-0 in an eleven-inning thriller today, the Hub's tightest game of the year.

As Lanky Tex Carleton baffled the Bostonians for the sixth time this year and recorded his tenth victory, the Chicagoans extended their National league lead to two full games, the second place Cardinals bowing to the Phillies.

Billy Herman, equalling for the second time the major league record of eleven putouts by a second baseman, and obtaining three hits in five times at bat, one a double, was a big factor in turning the decision Chicago's way.

Herman also made eleven putouts against the Phillies in 1933 to duplicate the feat of Charley Gehringer of the Tigers against the Red Sox in 1929 and Samuel Wise of the Senators in 1923.

John Lanning was Carleton's mound foe. For ten innings each hurled shutout ball as a scant crowd of 4,419 yelled encouragement, Carleton yielding four hits, no two in one inning, and Lanning five. Until the tenth no runner reached third base.

Then in the eleventh with Lanning withdrawn for a pinch hitter the Cubs got to relief pitcher Bob Smith for the decisive run, on three hits, Warstler got Boston's fifth hit off Carleton in the last half, but it was in vain.

Hack opened Chicago's winning eleventh inning rally with a single to left with one out, took third on Billy Herman's hit and run single through short, and scored on Gabby Hartnett's single to left.

The Bees had the game in their palms when they filled the bases with one out in the tenth, only to have Baxter Jordan, pinch hitting for Lanning, hit into a double play.

The second and third games of the series will be played in a doubleheader tomorrow, Wally Berger, Bees' slugger, who was out with a cold today, is expected to return to the lineup.

Yankees Take 5-4 Win from Indians

Extend Lead in Flag Race To Nine and Half Games

Cleveland, Aug. 1.—(P)—The New York Yankees made one straight over the Indians today, and stretched their American League lead to nine and a half games.

Frank Crosetti's double, Joe Di Maggio's single and Lou Gehrig's bounder to the pitcher's box brought in the winning run in the tenth after the Indians had come from behind on Hal Trosky's 31st homer and "Bad News" Hale's 12th to tie the count in the eighth.

The Tribe outlived the Yanks 14 to 11, but the timely New York hitting provided the winning edge.

Lefty Gomez, Yankee starting pitcher, was belted out of the box in the eighth during a two-run Tribe rally, and Johnny Murphy, who finished the game, received credit for the win.

Denny Galehouse, who went in the game in the ninth, after starter Johnny Allen had been taken out for a pinch-hitter the inning before, was charged with the defeat, although the winning run was scored off Thornton Lee, who replaced him.

Phillies Defeat Cardinals 11-3

Red Bird Slips Give Phils 11 Runs for 5 Hits

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—(P)—Claude Passeau pitched the Phillies to an 11 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals today, holding the "Gas House Gang" to six hits and only one earned run.

The Phils got only five hits off LeRoy Parmelee and Walker, but they combined these with nine bases on balls, a hit batsman and three errors at critical moments.

A six-run attack off Walker in the eighth, climaxed by Johnny Moore's 14th homer of the season with two out, eliminated any hope of a Cardinal victory.

The Philadelphia police, representing the old time Phillies, beat the Philadelphia firemen, representing the old time Cardinals, 2 to 1, in a two-inning demonstration of how baseball was played in 1876.

Giants Blast Cubs With 6-0 Victory

Al Smith Pitches Fourth Shutout of Season

New York, Aug. 1.—(P)—Lefty Al Smith pitched his fourth shutout and his tenth victory of the year today, letting the Pittsburgh Pirates down with five hits as the Giants clubbed Cy Blanton and Mace Brown for a 6 to 0 victory.

The win was the Giants' 14th in their last 18 games, and left them just five games back of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals.

Dick Bartell's fifth homer of the year, with a mate on base in the third inning, and a four run rally on five hits which sent Blanton to the showers in the fifth, sewed up the game for the New Yorkers.

Smith pitched hitless ball in six of the nine innings, and was particularly effective in the pinches.

FAN BREEZES
By Ernest Savage

Today's big event will be the golf championship match between Joe Doyle, the Little 19 champion, and Allyn Ketter, Jacksonville high graduate of last spring.

The two boys are scheduled to fight it out over 36 holes at the Nichols park links today. Doyle was one of the boys favored to get into the championship match, while Ketter's appearance was a mild surprise.

There has been a lot of argument about Joe's eligibility but he was declared eligible by the park golf committee before the tournament began, so the arguing isn't going to do much good.

Joe has served as caddy master at the Country club, a fact which was placed before W. T. Harmon, commissioner of the Little 19 conference, who ruled that he was eligible in the Little 19 conference meet. The park golf committee felt that this endorsement was enough for them, and they passed on him accordingly.

"Bud" Laney, who stirred up a lot of interest here from his home in Chicago, about former J. H. S. football and basketball teams, has been spending a couple of weeks here trying to stir up some more arguments.

Laney, however, is pretty disgusted. He left this morning for Chicago, wondering whether local sports followers knew there was a high school in town.

It is his opinion that athletics in Jacksonville will not amount to much until the city puts back the Y. M. C. A. in a building where it can teach physical coordination. Laney misses the old Y. M. C. A. atmosphere, facilities and companionship.

We're not quite so pessimistic about the future of school athletics here. We believe that the school board is providing better facilities as rapidly as possible. The next step, after they have supplied the gymnasium, will be to hire persons capable of teaching a well rounded physical education program in each of the ward schools.

"And while you are passing out bouquets for putting Willis Munger across for the All-Star college team," Athletic Director LaRue Van Meter told us the other day, "you better pass out a few to Charles Barlow, who really did the work."

Charles Barlow, a cousin of M. M. Barlow, handled a large part of the detail work. He circulated the petitions, kept all of the various workers supplied with them and the enthusiasm to work, and did a lot of personal canvassing. "C. C." as he is known on the hill, is assistant to the president, and field worker.

James Carnahan, who has been teaching in the Beardstown Junior High school, and who is well known here through his work in the Boy Scout organization, has resigned to accept a position as principal and coach at Normal Junior High school.

Gene Brodman, Clyde Martin, and Willis Venters are among the applicants for Carnahan's old job as coach and teacher.

Dietrich Holds Boston To Two Safeties

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(P)—Bill Dietrich, bespectacled righthander who was picked up on waivers by the White Sox 12 days ago, allowed only two Boston Red Sox to reach first base today and the Chicagoans evened the series with a 3 to 0 victory.

Roger Cramer singled with one out in the fourth and Manager Joe Cronin doubled with one away in the fifth. Dietrich walked none. It was his second victory in as many starts for the White Sox and his sixth triumph against seven defeats for the season.

The White Sox peppered Johnny Marcum for ten singles, three of them by Zeke Bonura, whose first blow drove in two of the runs in the first inning.

Brooklyn Trounces Cincinnati 11-4

Rookie Butcher Turns in 3 Hit Game

Brooklyn, Aug. 1.—(P)—Max Butcher, rookie right hander up from Galveston this year, pitched his first complete game of the season today, a three hit masterpiece over the Cincinnati Reds to give the Dodgers an 11 to 4 victory in the current series opener.

Babe Phelps, Dodger catcher, was the batting hero, belting out a homer, triple and single to drive in five of the Brooklyn runs.

The Reds scored all their runs in the sixth inning, when a pair of errors by Linus Frey and one lone hit produced the four tallies.

Butcher pitched hitless ball through the first five innings. He struck out eight men and walked but two.

Cincinnati 000 004 000-4 3 0
Brooklyn 403 100 12x-11 8 2

Doubtful Reception Greets United States Delegation, French Give Nazi Salute

Berlin, Aug. 1.—(P)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, attired in a brown uniform and smiling genially, formally launched the 11th Olympiad today amid ceremonies dazzlingly brilliant despite dripping skies marked by vividly contrasting demonstrations obviously fraught with political as well as sporting significance.

An overflow crowd of 105,000 packed the massive, double-decked concrete stadium to see the record-breaking gathering of nearly 4,500 athletes representing fifty nations to take the Olympic oath during an impressive two-hour program splashed with color, rain drops and mass enthusiasm that reached its peak when French and Austrian athletes gave the Nazi salute while passing the Chancellor's reviewing box.

The big United States delegation, surpassed in size only by the German, was accorded a doubtful reception. Changing plans suddenly overnight to avoid the appearance of giving only a modified Nazi salute under the original intentions to extend arms with hats in hand, the Americans reverted to the former custom of doffing their hats and placing them over the heart while giving "eyes right."

This change, coupled with traditional obedience to regulations barring the American flag from being dipped, apparently contributed to the character of the crowds' reception which was noisily enthusiastic but not comparable with the welcome accorded those who seemed entirely willing to adopt the slogan: "When in Rome do as Romans do."

Last of the visiting delegations in the procession and followed only by the Germans, the Americans received an even bigger hand going out of the stadium than coming in when they were welcomed with a noisy whistling reception which some European observers suggested was tantamount to the European "rasberries."

There was considerable difference of opinion in the press box as to what section in the stadium the whistling came from. Some thought it came from several thousand American spectators, while others believed it came from a section which included several hundred "brown shirts" who resented the fact the Americans renounced their straggly hats while the band was playing "Horst Wessel," the Nazi marching song.

Hitler, who stood throughout the parade returning national salutes, repeatedly acknowledged France's friendly greeting while thunderous cheers virtually rocked the stadium. The demonstration was repeated for the athletes of Austria, where not so long ago anyone detected giving the Nazi salute was liable to imprisonment.

Only four leaders of the Czechoslovakian delegation gave the Nazi salute while the rest of the group turned their faces toward Hitler. The Bulgarians, to offset possible misinterpretation by not dipping their colors, goose-stepped past the official stands.

The highest Olympic traditions were upheld by the spectacle which even the weather aided after three early showers fell just before Chancellor Hitler entered the stadium with high Nazi officials. Count Henri Baillet-Latour, president of the International Olympic committee, and the remainder of the top-hatted international committee.

The rain held off throughout the spectacular parade and the formalities which included a speech by Dr. Theodor Lewald, president of the German organizing committee, Hitler's proclamation opening the games, the blond German Olympic middleweight weight-lifting champion, Rudolf Ismayr's taking the oath in behalf of all athletes, and the picturesque lifting of the Olympic torch ceremoniously relayed from Olympia, Greece.

The athletic program tomorrow will be launched with the start of five sports—track and field, wrestling, fencing, field hockey and the modern pentathlon performers who will engage in an equestrian cross-country race at 9 a. m. (2 a. m. central standard time).

Athletics Beat Browns, 5 to 3

Even Up Crucial Series for Cellular Position

St. Louis, Aug. 1.—(P)—A four-run ninth inning spurge gave the Athletics a 5-3 victory over St. Louis today and evened up their "crucial" series for the American League cellular at one game each.

Ivy Paul Andrews held the Mack-men to four hits until the ninth, but two singles, Higgins' double, Niemiec's triple and two Brownie misplays snapped what threatened to be the longest St. Louis winning streak this season at three straight.

Lee Ross, Philadelphia right hander, allowed nine hits.

The victory left Philadelphia in the cellar 14 games behind the Browns.

Two Local Tennis Stars Will Leave For Culver Me

Will Go To Indiana For National Junior Net Tourney

Early this morning, Bob Hamm and Elmer Lukeman, young Jacksonville tennis stars, left for Culver, Indiana, where they will join a select group of players from all parts of the country in the quest for the junior doubles and singles championships of the United States. Both Hamm and Lukeman are expecting to enter both divisions, having qualified by winning second place in the Illinois state high school doubles tournament last spring.

Elmer and Bob, despite the fact that each was a member of the last class to graduate from Jacksonville high school, are real tennis veterans. Each has held the championship of Higgins, 3b. 4 1 1 0 5 the city twice. Between them, they have controlled this district in high school competition for four years, winning doubles and singles titles, whichever they happened to enter.

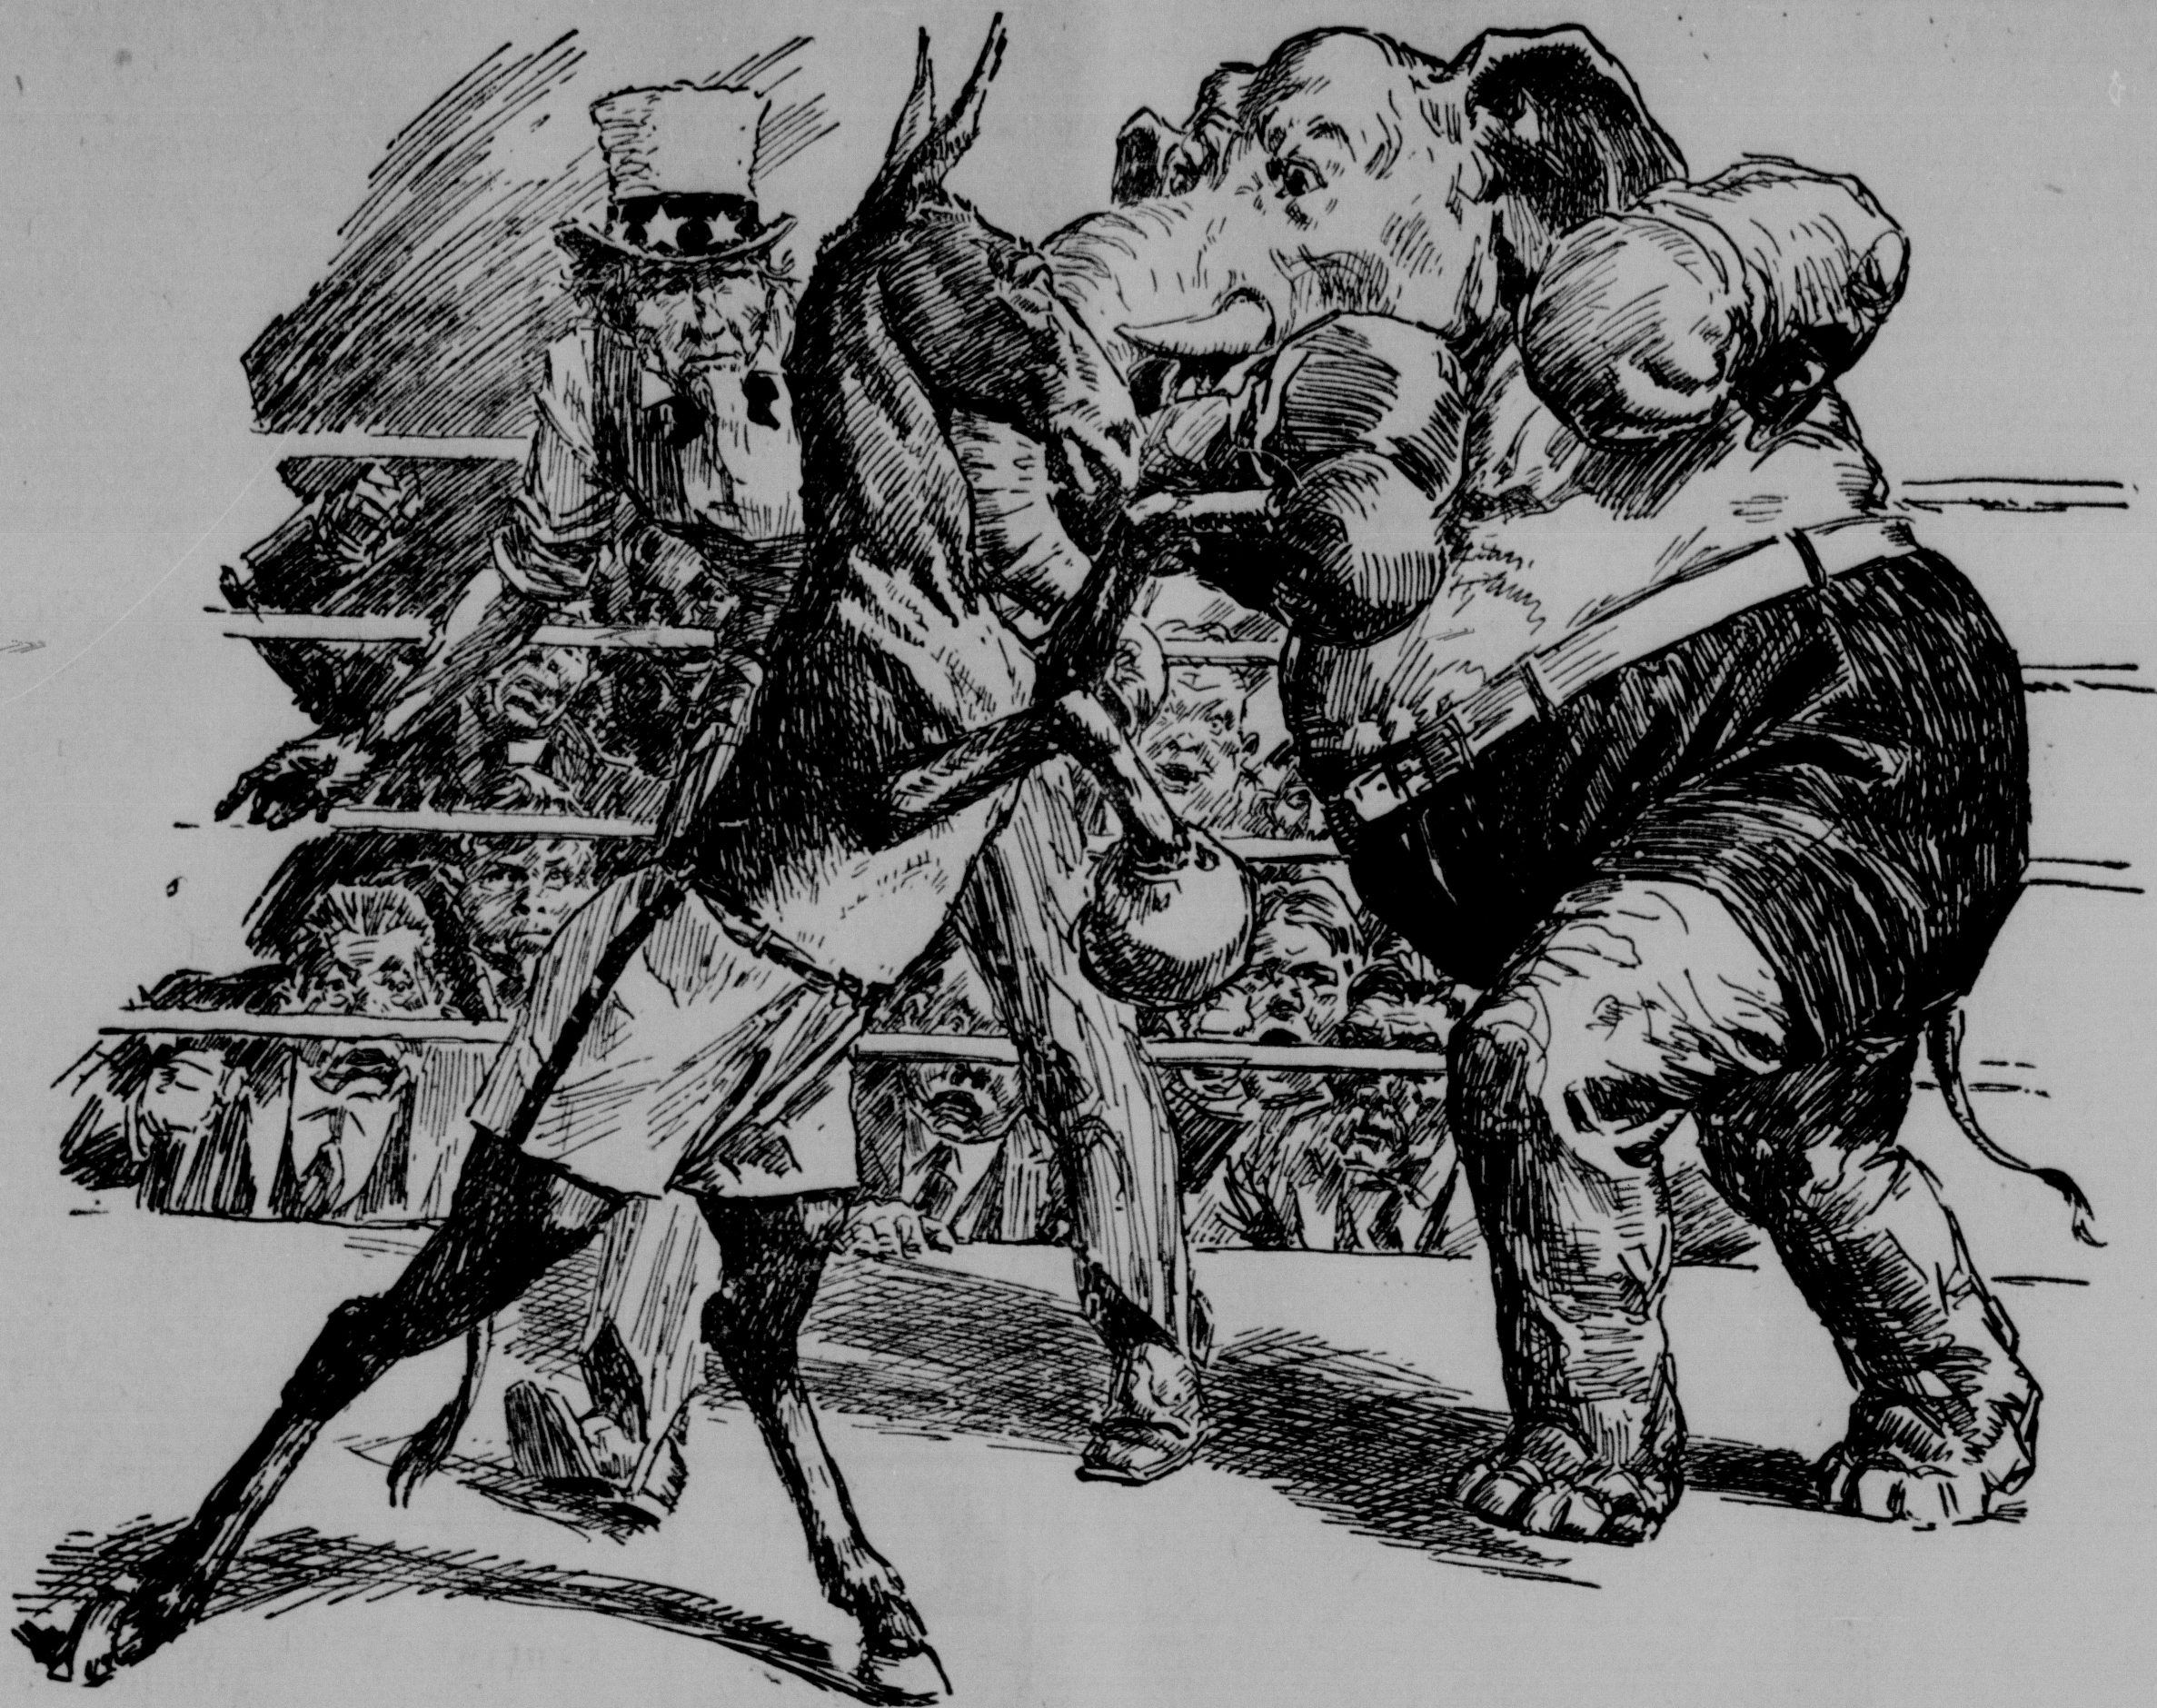

Lukeman and Hamm never seemed to distinguish between senior and junior competition. They are each 17 and have another year, rightfully, in junior competition. However, they have played some of the best players such as Peoria, Springfield, Quincy have to offer and emerged victorious most of the time. They have entered several tournaments in this section of the state. They are senior doubles champions of the Springfield district and, of course, their hairbreadth loss of the state doubles high school crown by long deuce sets has been mentioned before.

Hamm and Lukeman have stood out for the past few years as the best Jacksonville has had to represent itself on the tennis courts for a long time. Their record is made more brilliant by their youth and Jacksonville wishes them the best of luck Monday when they start in the national tournament.

Grass Fire Causes Damage In Ashland

Lack of Water Hinders Work Of Fire Department; Other News

Ashland.—The homes of S. D. Danenberger and J. C. Votsmier, in the north part of town were threatened by a small prairie fire in the pasture north of the Danenberger home Wednesday at about 10:45 a. m.

A group of boys, cleaning out a "shack," were burning rubbish, which set fire to the dry grass and fanned a north breeze, gained considerable headway. Richard Thornley, using his tractor and plow from a nearby field, checked the fire. Others assisted with spades, boards and sacks, in smothering and beating out the flames. The local fire department, which was called to the scene, was rendered powerless to aid through lack of water.

The destruction of two small chicken coops on the Danenberger farm and damage to the pasture and garden on the Votsmier property were the only results of what might have been a serious fire.

Union church services will be held this evening at 7:30 p. m., in the Ashland Methodist church with the pastor, Rev. Charles L. Coleman, delivering the sermon. Musical numbers of special interest will be given by Mrs. T. R. Williams and Mrs. J. B. Laswell, of Edinburg, and the men's quartet of Ashland.

Mrs. J. J. Wyatt entertained members of her bridge club and other friends at her home Wednesday night, July 29. Three tables of bridge were at play, followed by refreshments. Those present included Mrs. L. O. Butler, Mrs. Henry A. Votsmier, Mrs. R. O. Beadles, Mrs. Mary Anderson, Mrs. Frank S. Berg, Mrs. Ida Crum, Mrs. D. E. Wilson, Mrs. Charles H. Cobb, Mrs. John V. Beggis, Mrs. John Gardner, Mrs. D. L. Clarke and Mrs. C. F. Cornington. Mrs. Clarke won high score.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Klein and daughter, Mary Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Walker Thornley and sons; Lloyd Edgar and James Spencer were dinner guests recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Plattner at Bluff Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Cosner entertained at dinner at their country home Wednesday night, the following guests, Misses Eula, Glenna and Grace Bailey and George Kendall.

RESORT HOTEL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANN HAMILTON, pretty young secretary in a large business office, goes to a travel agency to make plans for her two-week vacation.

BILL WARE, travel bureau employee, tries to persuade her to go to Lake Racine. Because Ann is rushed for time, Bill offers to come to her home and finish planning the trip. He comes that evening. Ann notices for the first time that he is a good-looking young man.

She finally decides to go to Lake Racine. Bill tells her he is going there, too, but their vacations do not come at the same time.

Impulsively Bill asks her to go to a movie. Ann goes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

ON the way to Lake Racine Ann felt that adventure was in the air. What was to happen next? She was alone, and the sight of pleasant woods and broad fields made her forget the broiling streets of the city she had left behind. A record heat wave was in progress, but already, only a few hours out, she could feel cooling breezes.

Rather she sensed the cool mountain air of Lake Racine, which lay ahead of her, like a glistening blue jewel in the midst of soaring green mountains.

She thought of the vacation presents, snugly wrapped, in her luggage. She thought of the smiling faces that had seen her off at the station; of her roommate, Alice, who was at the seashore; of the girls in the office who were awaiting their turns at taking vacations. There was Bill Ware who, at the last minute, had turned up at the station to say goodbye.

The business details of the trip had cemented her friendship with Bill and she had had two dates with him. Once they had gone up the river on the bus with the other heat-ridden people, looking for some cool air. Another time they had taken the excursion boat on the river. Bill was a good sort, she thought idly.

But then she thought of her new nile green bathing suit, of the evening dress—a cardinal's red—which she had picked up at a Tuesday morning sale for almost nothing. She thought of the amiable hostess at the Glenwood Inn where she was to stay, of young men like knights in shining armor, of tennis balls poised in a hand, or guava jelly (one of her going-away gifts), of the cow-horn on a long, low-slung roadster she had watched racing the train part of the morning, of electric fans, of speedboats on water, and of the travel book Alice had given her.

BUT when she changed trains at River Junction, and found herself once more on the dinky little mountain train which poked its way up among the high mountains on the narrow-gauge, Ann merely sat and watched the other vacationers. A feeling of loneliness suddenly beset her.

Everything was glamorous and still and beautiful. It sent Ann's spirit soaring, though at her heart was a sensation of loneliness.

The others seemed to have brought their friends with them. They called out familiarly from one end of the car to the other.

"What are you doing tonight?" a boy called, quite unabashed, the length of the car. A pretty, slim girl seated with her mother at the opposite end, called back, "Walk around the lake?"

"Sure. See you when," the boy answered impudently.

In the seat opposite sat a boy and a girl completely engrossed in themselves. Ann wanted them to be honeymooners, so aloof they seemed, but once the girl pointed excitedly out the window, and said, "There's our cabin, John, darling, look! It hasn't changed a bit since last year." A cabin in the woods that belonged to them.

A setting for their romance. "Come on over to our camp." . . . "Let me know when you want to play tennis." . . . "Cocktails at 6, and bring everybody we know." Invitations flew all about her.

Suddenly Ann felt a vast uneasiness. She was a little alarmed. Suppose she shouldn't meet even one man she liked. The mere repetition of such thoughts made her feel forlorn and lonely—afraid.

In panic she wished she had gone to the seashore with Alice. She began to wish fervently that even Bill Ware had come along.

John Duffner Talks To WPA Athletes

Tells Of Qualifications For Playing Various Places On Baseball Team

The YMCA-WPA baseball coaching school held at the YMCA building Friday morning was attended by 60 boys interested in learning more about how to play the game. John T. Duffner, Capt. 1936 U. of I. baseball team was again the guest speaker. Mr. Duffner had for his subject "Playing Positions". In opening his remarks he stated that pep talks are not given by a coach before a baseball game in contrast with before the start of a football and basketball game. Players starting a baseball game should be relaxed to play their best. Regarding the playing positions, Mr. Duffner stated 50 per cent of the defense of a team is in the pitcher, next the catcher, and then the basemen and fielders. The catcher takes his "stance" in a crouch position, usually so close to the batter that he nearly touches the swinging bat. One must always be alert. The catcher has to keep a thorough knowledge of the strength and weakness of individual players as well as to signal instructions to the players. He is usually the peepiest man on the team and should have the ability to think fast. Mr. Duffner paid very high tribute to Wallace Baptist, Routt College coach, for his ability in bringing out the best qualities of a player, particularly one playing the catching position.

In playing first base, there are various positions for different phases of the game. The things the first baseman should watch are his footwork, the position of the hands and arms, the plays he has to make, taking care of bunted balls, the runner on first, and infield balls. Plays of other infielders are catching the ball when thrown by the catcher, stopping steals, catching fly balls, watching double plays, thinking where to throw the ball if it should be hit to him. The plays for outfielders are fielding fly balls, handling ground balls and backing up plays made between the infielder and getting the ball in fast to the basemen. The best fielder usually plays in center field.

Except for short quick throws which should be flipped, all throws after fielding the ball should be overhand in the interest of straight accurate throws.

In stealing bases, a player should be on his toes and never try to steal a base if there are no outs. Mr. Duffner recommended that a ball player should practice sliding and a good way to do this is to put on old clothes and get out when it is raining and practice sliding to a base. He explained how to slide and gave illustrations.

Mr. Duffner used illustrations of plays made by major league players to illustrate the various points in his talk. Mr. Duffner's talk was very much appreciated by the group present and he made arrangements to talk to them again in the near future.

Mrs. Mary Baker was included in the number of callers here yesterday from Chanderville.

Rees Plowing Meet Will Be Held Next Thursday Afternoon at Rees Farm

This year's meet will be the twelfth held at the Rees farm and promises to attract the largest crowd in its history. The Rees Plowing Meet is primarily an educational event. Information secured by competitive tests of fuel, oil, types of plows and tractors has furnished valuable data which the Farm Mechanics Department of the state university has used in its research work—data which scarcely could be secured in any other way. Aside from the technical data, it has a great practical educational value to the thousands of interested farmers and machinery men who attend.

J. W. Bedingfield Leaves Railroad After 47 Years

Barrow, Ill., Agent Started His Career At Chapin In 1889

Barrow, Ill., Aug. 1.—J. W. Bedingfield, local agent for the Burlington Railroad, retired from that company's service today, having reached the age limit of 70 years. He has served the railroad company for the past 47 years.

Mr. Bedingfield started his railroad career at Chapin, Ill. As a youth he was the chore boy around the depot. The click of the telegraph instruments attracted the youth and within a few months he had mastered the Morse code of dots and dashes and applied to the company for a position as telegraph operator. He was sent to East St. Louis as telegrapher where he remained for two years.

Mr. Bedingfield then was transferred to his former home and for eleven years served as telegrapher and agent for the Burlington at Chapin. He was then transferred to Alsely, Ill., where he served as agent for the Burlington for more than fourteen years.

Mr. Bedingfield's next move was to Barrow, where he has been agent for the past twenty years. He also handled the agency at West Roodhouse in addition to his services as agent at Barrow.

He is probably one of the oldest telegraphers and agents on the Beardstown division of the Burlington railroad.

While Mr. Bedingfield is still quite active, he feels that he has earned a rest and leaves the railroad company with a perfect record.

Mr. Bedingfield stated today, his first in retirement, that he had no definite plans for the future. He would like to take life easy for a while, continuing his residence in Barrow for the present. He has one daughter, Mrs. Idell Bowman of Hill view. His wife passed away on September 11, 1935, at their home in Barrow.

The Prodigal Returns to Observe Colorful Characters 'Back Home'

There was a reaction in my mind that was more satisfactory to me which developed during and after my vacation trip to the old home community back there in Morgan county.

I came away with the feeling secure—that there still is characters, like Will Rogers so truthfully portrayed on the screen—that Josh Whitcomb Riley and George Ade painted in verse and prose, but who remain unknown to the world—they have not been exploited on the screen, in the pages of magazines or in the columns of the newspapers may I hope that I may be setting a precedent.

Nevertheless they do live and are with us have become such a part of our every day lives—that we take them as a matter of fact or a matter of course. In my mind one such character lives in the person of that settled old bachelor friend of mine Riley Young. I called on Riley and we spent some time together on the Johnny Litter farm north of Litterberry where Riley makes his home and has done so for all the years that I have known him.

I used to look down the tracks from the window in the old red depot on around nine o'clock on Sunday morning and see Riley Young, Johnny Litter and his wife walking toward Litterberry to attend Sunday school.

Riley possesses that grand character that is mighty scarce in these days—unselfish friendliness that is just that—unassuming. I remember one cold winter night we were told of a woman who had died and as was the custom, some one was expected to volunteer to sit up at the home of the dead. Riley said, he would go. I also consented as did two young ladies.

The place was a little two room cabin located away back in the woods. We made a path through the snow as we trudged toward that home. It was indeed a desolate place. After we arrived the children were taken care of by some of the neighbors, the only heat came from a wood burning cook stove in the kitchen. The woman's body lay in adjoining room a sheet covering the still form. It was our duty to look in on the corpse and apply a cloth saturated with a solution of carbolic acid, there had been no embalming. We had a pot of coffee keeping hot on the back of the stove—to be used as a stimulant during the long night that was before us.

While the wind howled through the naked branches of the trees and we could feel the zero weather shifting through the cracks and under the doors—we managed to keep fairly comfortable. However all in all it was indeed a pathetic scene and to me my first experience of the kind. As the night dragged slowly on we tried to make it speed up by talking of things far removed from the surroundings. Ever so often Riley and I would walk into the adjoining room to apply the solution as we had been instructed and see to it that everything was all right. During a lull in the conversation when we all appeared lost in our own thoughts I happened to look at Riley and he said to me, "Do you know what I was thinking about?" I answered in the negative, "Well sir," he said, "I was just thinking if I had the money these little motherless children would never see this dismal cabin again."

There folks was painted on my mind—a picture that will never be effaced from my memory in all time. It is a true character—a homely person—a lovely personality. I never knew Riley to have a "stiddy gal"—but I did know that when any dame got in a spat with her "stiddy beau" and she wanted to go out—all that was necessary was to tip Riley off and he was, "right there pinch-beating for any of the gals rain or shine and I finally named him "Riley the Rain Beau."

'Tis not the flowers you pluck as you go along
'Tis the flowers you give that sing the song
'Tis not the words you speak as you pass by
It's how you say them that brings a smile or sigh.

The Prodigal.
